Recession Suggested By Business Reports

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Has the three-year business boom skidded into a recession? The administration avoids the word, but a week-long flood of unfavorable reports from the federal statistical mill added up Saturday to the suggestion that a mild, "high-level" recession has been reached. The reports were not alarming. They showed economic activity to be higher than in most of the recent prosperous years, with indexes still close to all-time highs. Privately and publicly, government economists predicted a moderate and brief—probably a matter of several months, at most—slump. But a sharp drop in recognized periods of recession have so many of the major signs of business activity pointed downward as in the past 10 days. "I am not sure the commerce department's federal reserve board and the president's council of economic advisers would call this a recession," said one economist. "They showed that in October."

Circle Disbands, Buys Hearing Aids

Mrs. Emma Batsh, right, last president of the Women's Sewing Circle of the First Presbyterian church of Twin Falls, and Mrs. Henry Gathling, secretary-treasurer, examine hearing aids being installed on pews in the church. Money for the hearing aids, which are connected to the church's public address system, was raised through circle quilting. It was the last project of the sewing circle which formally disbanded Saturday after being in existence since 1923. (Staff photo-Engraving)

Women's Sewing Circle Here Disbands Because Quilting Becoming Lost Art

Quilting is gradually becoming a lost art. A little over a generation ago the ability to quilt was a must of all brides and, locally, a source of revenue for the First Presbyterian church of Twin Falls.

The disolution of the Women's Sewing Circle of the First Presbyterian church was announced Saturday by its president, Mrs. Emma Batsh, Twin Falls. Characteristically, even the disbanding of the organization which was formed in 1923 was of material benefit to the church.

Group Slates Annual Yule Dinner Meet

BUZZARD, Nov. 23—Annual Christmas party for the Buzzard BWP is slated for Dec. 4 at the Cottage cafe.

Hostesses for the dinner meeting will be Grace Anderson, Bertha Hunt, Browne Colwell and Grace King. Gifts will be exchanged and music will be welcome.

A special program marking membership month was presented Wednesday at the home of Maude Shepard. Fourteen members of the Buzzard BWP club attended the picnic.

Mrs. Sarah Harrison, Burley, first vice-director of the Idaho central district, discussed membership.

William Hawkes, chairman of the western region which comprises nine Western states, Hawaii and Alaska, stressed the objectives of the BWP club. There are 30 clubs in Idaho alone, with a membership of 1,200 in the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and District of Columbia. There are 3,000 clubs. The International Federation includes 20 countries.

Mrs. King reported on the equal rights amendment legislation which will be taken up at the next session of congress and included a report from Mrs. Grace Pitt, Idaho co-congresswoman, who is co-sponsored by the house of representatives.

Robert Briggs showed a film on the growth of Idaho. Members and guests were welcomed by Mrs. King and Mrs. Thelma Clark, president of the Burley club, gave the response.

A Thanksgiving dinner was enjoyed by 40 members and guests. Mrs. Bernard was assisted by Mrs. Jane Kierke.

Retired College Instructor Dies

MOSCOW, Nov. 23 (AP)—Dr. Floyd W. Gail, 76, retired head of the department of botany at the University of Idaho, died Friday in Great Falls, Mont.

A native of Tokona, Kan., he came here in 1913. He was botany department head 40 years until his retirement in 1953. Mrs. Gail died in 1955.

Dr. Gail had lived the last two years with a sister, Pearl Kloebe, in Great Falls. A brother, Fred, also resides at Cody, Wyo.

The body will be returned here for burial.

All of the money in the sewing circle treasury, earned through quilting projects, was spent on hearing aids which will be attached to various pews in the church. The hearing aids are connected to the church's address system and are used by persons who are hard of hearing.

In announcing disbanding of the sewing circle, Mrs. Batsh explained the decision was forced upon the present group because of the death of members and the circle's inability to find persons interested in learning the art of quilting. Only five members were present when the decision was made to disband, Mrs. Batsh said.

They are Mrs. Batsh, Mrs. Henry Gathling, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Nellie Griggs, Mrs. Lillian Itton and Mrs. Nettie Sommererville. Mrs. August Devlin, vice president, Mrs. W. Fisher, Mrs. J. C. Deuschman, Mrs. Clara Sheldon, Mrs. McAlister, Mrs. Ada Stanford, Mrs. Lillian McElwain, Mrs. Mary Walker, Mrs. Geiger and Mrs. Rimbly.

Other members were Mrs. J. M. Pierce, Mrs. A. I. Rosa, Mrs. Louise Rockwell, Mrs. Devlin, Mrs. L. O. Evans, Mrs. Nellie Griggs, Mrs. Sommererville, Mrs. Nettie Churchill and Mrs. Gathling.

From that time on the circle made regular contributions until the cottage was paid for and donated to the church. The group also sold, supplied, and knitted utensils.

Reactor Due for Test Operations

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. Nov. 23 (AP)—Experimental operation of the nuclear reactor at the nation's first full-scale atomic power plant is expected to begin soon.

A spokesman for Westinghouse Electric corporation, which built the atomic "furnace," said Saturday no specific date has been set yet for the initial splitting of atoms at the reactor, but it is close.

Testing of the huge reactor at low power is expected to require about a month. It is hoped the plant can begin generating commercial quantities of electricity before the end of the year.

In full operation, heat from splitting uranium atoms will convert water to steam, spinning a turbine to produce at least 2,000 kilowatts of electricity. This is sufficient to supply the industrial needs of a community of 2,000 population.

PAVETTE, Nov. 23 (AP)—The executive secretary of the Idaho Municipal League said Saturday the group will present a new tax plan at the next session of the state legislature.

Robertson Smith of Weaver made the statement following a district meeting attended by 23 municipal officials here. He said the officials strongly favor the plan, which would be revised to attract industry.

Assault Trial Jurors Decide Couple Guilty

A couple convicted here in June for second degree burglary of a burglar's home, was convicted in Idaho Falls Friday for assault with a deadly weapon.

The verdict Friday in the Idaho Falls district court was returned against James P. Polson, 24, Idaho Falls, and Mrs. Jeanne Johnson, 26, of Pocatello.

James P. Polson, 24, was sentenced to the prison. Polson was sentenced to not more than two years and Mrs. Johnson to not more than one year.

The verdict indicated the jurors did not believe testimony of the victim, Mary Mackay O'Neil, Idaho Falls, O'Neil testified Friday that Polson and Mrs. Johnson were the ones who shot him.

Instead, he said a "couple" Miller was his assailant. Miller was not in the house. The four people were acquainted and had been together the night of Oct. 10, 1956, when O'Neil was shot.

Polson has been in the Twin Falls Jail since February. He and Mrs. Johnson were apprehended through the front gate near King Hill and returned to Twin Falls to the floor.

Wide Area Hears Sonic Explosion

SPOKANE, Nov. 23 (AP)—Three jet airplanes broke the sound barrier during a "Thunder Run" mission, and created the "sonic boom" heard by hundreds of residents at Coeur d'Alene, Ida., and in the Spokane valley Friday.

Col. Charles W. King, Ninth air division deputy for operations, said a radar controller directed the F-102 delta wing planes to intercept simultaneously the speed of sound.

The controller apparently was unaware that the point of interception would be over a populated area, the colonel added.

A sonic explosion resulted at about 12:50 p. m. It was apparently heard by residents of a 30-square-mile area.

Such faster-than-sound missions regularly are carried out over unpopulated areas, Col. King said. He said the planes were from the 49th fighter-interceptor squadron at Spokane's Greiner field.

Man Is Held for Fire, Blast Quiz
DENVER, Nov. 23 (AP)—Fire investigators said Saturday they will question Joseph Lucero, 36, about a fire and explosion that he said blew him to the top of a nearby 50-foot building.

Lucero was taken to Denver General hospital for treatment of serious burns on his face, back and hands and internal injuries.

The mystery blast Friday night demolished a downtown building, causing damage estimated by Fire Capt. William Ephaph at $150,000. It crumpled the two-story brick building, burying three trucks and hundreds of bottles.

Ephaph said Lucero was found at the top of the building next door and rushed to the hospital. Lucero said he "saw two or three boys run from the building" a second before the explosion.

A police "hold" was placed on Lucero until the investigation is completed. Ephaph said. No cause for the fire and explosion was immediately determined.

BAKING

...gives you more turkey
 for your money!
 CUTS DOWN SHRINKAGE...ADDS MATCHLESS FLAVOR, TOO!

This handy cooking tip is sent to you by the 100,000 members of the Idaho Drymen's Association.

The whole turkey is plump, juicy and tasty when you bake, bake and brown it with butter. No shrunken drumsticks and no dried out white meat. And, ONLY Butter gives turkey that wonderful old-time holiday flavor. Follow the five steps given here and serve the grandest turkey ever... then smile a happy smile of triumph.

Have Plenty of Good Idaho Ice Cream, Milk, Cream and Cheese on Hand for tasty Thanksgiving Treats.

1. First, stuff and truss your turkey. For basting and stuffing, it is best to place on two pounds of butter. We suggest a crumbly, buttery stuffing of bread cubes tossed in butter, plus onion, salt, pepper and poultry seasoning. Fill your bird loosely. Truss with skewers and clean, strong cord. Pin neck close to body. Bind the legs close together. Tie the wings close to body.
2. Then you butter it. First soften butter. Spread over entire turkey, especially on tops of drumsticks, breast and wings. This does two things: Gives a protective coating of butter fat from the start helping to prevent drying out or case loss during early stages of roasting, and imparts a rich butter flavor. Now place your turkey on rack in shallow pan. Breast side up.
3. Cover your turkey with a moist cheesecloth dipped in melted butter. Arrange the cloth to cover your entire bird. The butter on the cheesecloth bastes the turkey... helps to protect it from drying out and shrinking. A pound of butter for basting and saturating the moist turkey. Cheesecloth protector will help prevent early turkey shrinkage and give you more turkey to serve.
4. Baste frequently with melted butter during roasting, right over the cheesecloth. Do not ever roasting pan or add water. Do not puncture with fork. Roast at constant temperature: 225° for 3 to 3½ hrs. for 8 to 10 lbs. bird; 3½ to 4 hrs. for 10 to 14 lbs.; 200° for 4 to 4½ hrs. for 14 to 18 lbs.; 4½ to 5 hrs. for 18 to 20 lbs.; 5 to 6 hrs. for 20 to 25 lbs. bird.
5. Add the final touch. When your turkey is done, remove it from roasting pan to serving platter. Place in warming oven 10 to 15 minutes to firm up and attract the juices. This makes carving easier. Just before serving place an extra pat of butter on the breast of your turkey and let the melting golden goodness add an extra touch of flavor and a golden glaze.

BOISE, Nov. 23 (U.P.)—The average teen-ager girl of today will probably spend 25 years of her life in paid employment, Rep. Grace Patai, D-Ida., said Saturday night.

Part of this working time will be before her marriage and part of it after her children are grown, Mrs. Patai told the Idaho Business and Professional Women's club.

Women workers are no longer just fill-ins, but are part of the nation's permanent labor force, the congresswoman said in her prepared address.

Mrs. Patai urged BPOC clubs to get behind women who feel they are qualified for public office. She said it was the support of the California BPOC club which first inspired her to run for congress.

Heyburn Aide Quits Position

HEYBURN, Nov. 23.—Reignation of Paul Wilcox, village innkeeper for Heyburn during the past five years, was announced Thursday evening at a mass meeting of Heyburn residents in the junior high school.

Wilcox will resign effective Jan. 1, 1936, reported listeners who attended the session. A replacement has not been made.

Heyburn's citizens gathered to discuss exclusion of Simplot property from the village limits and to consider need for village garbage collection.

When a majority of citizens present favored excluding the Simplot tract from the village, petitions were circulated for a future ballot. A total of 125 petitions or 51 per cent of the number of legal voters who voted in the last general election, is required.

Those attending the session also went on record as favoring a garbage collection ordinance. Their request was submitted to the village trustees.

Mantle Wins Most Valuable Player Award in American League; Williams Is Second

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Mickey Mantle, who lost all the pieces of his batting "triple crown" but put on a brilliant all-around performance, nosed out Boston's Ted Williams to win the American league's "most valuable player" award. The New York Yankees' belting beauty gained the decision from the Baseball Writers association for the second straight year with 233 points against 209 for Williams and 205 for Roy Sievers of the Washington Senators.

Fans Storm Over Low Votes for Williams

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Baseball fans, players and writers Saturday joined Boston Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey in blasting the balloting for the American league's most valuable player award. The apparent snub of the great Red Sox slugger by the two-unidentified newspapermen who gave him only three out of a possible 26 points, has stirred a controversy unparalleled in previous MVP voting.

Yawkey has been bombarding newspapers with letters and telegrams demanding a change in the voting procedure or taking the matter out of the hands of the Baseball Writers' association altogether. "I've got a hunch that the MVP award is the mildest of the charges hurled at the two writers who rated Williams so low," Yawkey said.

That statement seems not so much over the writers' choice of Mantle over Williams as it does over the choice of Mantle over Williams. "I do not think it is fair to think that the writers are interfering with my judgment," Mantle said. "I am a professional and I am not going to be disturbed by the writers' choice of Mantle over Williams."

Yawkey, however, was careful not to dispute the choice of Mantle over Williams. "I do not think it is fair to think that the writers are interfering with my judgment," Mantle said. "I am a professional and I am not going to be disturbed by the writers' choice of Mantle over Williams."

Sooners Take 32-7 Decision From Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 23 (AP)—Oklahoma Sooners, stung by Nebraska last week's backfield Saturday night, won a 32-7 victory in a dual between leaders and contenders of the Big Eight conference.

To the delight of 30,000 partisans, Nebraska grabbed a 7-0 first quarter lead and still was running a 7-0 advantage with 23 minutes of playing time gone.

Then the red fell in. Three Oklahoma touchdowns in the second quarter provided the Sooners with an 18-7 intermission advantage and two more touchdowns in the third quarter—once of them a three-point play—put the Sooners in a position to win.

Oklahoma's first end "Reactor" was the grates down on the second half kickoff. The Oklahoma Sooners, who had been leading 18-7, were now leading 25-7.

At this in his first year, coach Bennett adds his main problem to winning this type of game into work.

More Than 30 Doctors Reached Decision to Operate

The decision to operate as soon as possible on 2-year-old Carl Rogers, Shoshone, was made Wednesday at a conference of more than 30 doctors at National Jewish hospital at Denver. The child has a hole between the lower chambers of his heart which threatens to end his life in less than a year. Carl is given only a 50-50 chance of surviving the operation which is scheduled a week later. (National Jewish hospital photo—staff engraving)

Grave Risk Noted in Heart Surgery Planned Dec. 2 for Shoshone Boy, 2

DENVER, Nov. 23 (Special) — To do everything humanly possible to rescue is expected to cost National Jewish hospital at Denver more than $15,000. The operation is scheduled for Dec. 2 for 2-year-old Carl Rogers, Shoshone, who has a hole between the lower chambers of his heart which threatens to end his life in less than a year.

The operation is scheduled for Monday, Dec. 2. Carl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rogers, Shoshone, Idaho, has a congenital heart lesion known medically as an interventricular septal defect. It is a hole between the lower chambers of the heart that prevents normal blood circulation. The hole is usually large.

Doctors have estimated that the child may live less than a year without surgery. Cardiologists say the boy has only a 50-50 chance to survive the operation. But because his heart lesion sometimes causes death, the only hope is a surgery.

Last spring surgeons at National Jewish hospital attempted surgery on Carl, but the child's heart stopped and he was being put under anesthesia before the operation.

Immediately after the operation, the child's heart began pumping blood. In less than a minute the heart was restored, but doctors feared the child was too weak to withstand surgery at that time, and he was taken to the hospital. The child was closed without any further attempts to correct the heart defect.

The process of hypothermia, the cooling of the body temperature, is being used because with lower temperature, Carl's heart may be stopped from 5 to 12 minutes without causing irreparable brain damage. Without hypothermia the heart would suffer serious damage from a supply of blood-laden oxygen.

After surgery, special duty nurses will look after the child in an around-the-clock basis for as long as physicians in charge feel that it is necessary. This may be for a few days or a month.

Ventricular defects, or holes in the lower chambers of the heart, are the most difficult to correct because the heart is often weakened greatly. Doctors also said that in repairing ventricular defects it was often necessary to put sutures into the heart muscle to control the beating of the heart. While there is a high operating-risk rate in the surgery, the post-operative risk is considered slightly less than in many cases before surgery. The defect already has caused irreparable damage to the pulmonary artery system.

Children are being bullied and harassed to try to force them to leave. But they're not going to give in. To reports that some of the boys were about ready to quit, he said, "Absolutely untrue. They've got too much of themselves invested in this now."

T. F. Man Marks 99th Anniversary, Looks Forward to at Least Century

A retired Twin Falls farmer who was born before Abraham Lincoln became President celebrated his 99th birthday anniversary last week and is looking forward with confidence to living out at least a full century.

"I've made it all right so far," said Herschel Sommer, who lives east of Twin Falls on a farm he acquired in 1917, "and I don't see why I won't keep on making it."

Mr. Sommer was born Nov. 18, 1838, in Jefferson county, Ia. It was a time of strife between North and South. Mr. Sommer recalled that "all good folks, as you know, were all union sympathizers." Jefferson county was near the Mason-Dixon line, however, and he remembers bitter feeling from people on both sides.

"A fellow was going to make a speech in Martinsburg, Ia.," he recalls. "He was going to talk for slavery abolition and holding the country together. Well, Martinsburg was a slave territory, practically, and he was warned that he'd be shot if he spoke. He made his speech, and then left town to return to his home. And he was shot—just like they warned him. I remember distinctly soldiers on horseback accompanying the funeral train to bury that fellow."

Sommer was born on a farm at that time. He was too young then to concern himself greatly with war. "In those days we had certain sections set aside for schools. There would be a school here and one there. They were all over around the country. I went to school right there in Jefferson county. I guess I went to school until I was 20."

Just about that time, Sommer continued, his father, George Sommer, decided he had to have a little more land. He had only a 43-acre farm then. Anyway, he moved to south-west Iowa in 1878 and my dad rented about 160 acres. We had to start from scratch on that land. We broke out a 10-acre plot and planted about four furrows there for apple trees."

In 1883, Sommer married his childhood sweetheart. "We were school chums—had our classes together—knew each other a long time." She died Feb. 3, 1929.

From Iowa, Sommer and his wife went to Kansas. "I took a claim on some land there and we went out there. I even taught school for a year in Kansas."

An argument over where a county seat would be placed arose about this time, according to Sommer. "They were scrapping and fighting with one another over where they were going to put the county seat. Finally they picked Goodland, Kan., which was just straight east of where we lived."

Sommer said that while he was in Kansas, a banker who owned next to him heard that good potato "he had in a valley Colorado. He said he'd go out there and find that valley," Sommer said. "He wanted to go to the valley."

Four of the busiest men in Twin Falls are Charles E. Donnelly, D. A. Jackson, Ivan M. Jackson and Howard W. Runk. Each has something in common with the others. They are all doctors of veterinary medicine, and each is just starting out in his new practice.

These four doctors care for the health of animals, both large and small, in an area that ranges from the Snake river to the Snake river valley. They are all graduates of the Twin Falls Veterinary hospital at 250 South 10th.

Their practice includes animals on the farm and pets in the home, but from 35 to 65 per cent of all animals treated by the four doctors are farm animals.

Dr. D. A. Jackson and Dr. Ivan M. Jackson are brothers-in-law. Dr. Jackson and Dr. Runk are also brothers-in-law. Dr. Runk is a veterinarian at Jackson, D. I. M., who has been practicing with his brother for about 10 years.

Dr. Howard W. Runk began his veterinary career in Twin Falls early in 1937. He began practicing in association with Dr. Merritt Groves, but barely a month after the association was set up Dr. Groves died, and Dr. Runk was on his own.

Today Dr. Runk operates the Green Cross Veterinary hospital at 250 1/2 Addition street west. Recently Dr. Charles E. Donnelly, became associated with Dr. Runk. One of the veterinarians, the Jacksons and Dr. Donnelly, were graduated from the school of veterinary medicine at Colorado State college. Dr. Runk was graduated as a veterinarian from Kansas State College of Agriculture.

At least six years of college training are required for the DVM, doctor of veterinary medicine, degree. There are about 17 state-supported schools of veterinary medicine in the United States, fewer than a decade ago. In all, there are some 16,500 practicing veterinarians in the country.

Prospective veterinarians are required to study anatomy, including histology and embryology, physiology and biochemistry, pathology, bacteriology, immunology, parasitology, surgery and must gain practical knowledge in college clinics. After graduation from college, a veterinarian must pass a stiff examination before he can practice.

Bitterness Casts Pall on Little Rock's Yule Plans

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 23 (Special) — A bitter, even venomous, atmosphere is being cast over the Yule plans of Little Rock by the city and the state. Bitterness, animosity and social tensions have been cast over the city since the federal troops moved in to take the city.

Two months have passed since the federal troops moved in to take the city. The federal troops moved in to take the city. The federal troops moved in to take the city.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By NORMAN STOCKWELL

But anyone who dared to call them "unprivileged" would have been put in the stocks, for they had four of the greatest of all human assets: Courage, initiative, a willingness to work, and a boundless faith in almighty God.

In coming to the new world, the people had committed their cause to almighty God, but they had not relied upon the nation that divine law was on their side regardless of whether they obeyed it or not. They understood that man had obligations as well as rights. They had not yet perverted the 23rd psalm to read: "The state is my shepherd, it shall not work."

Because our forefathers had initiative, courage, a will to work and a deep faith, they survived, planted crops, reaped a harvest and declared a day of Thanksgiving. They sent their surveyors on neither a raffish ticket nor from a relief board. And think of the toll they endured to produce the first crop of corn with neither free seed nor government subsidies. Nor were they too tired to go to church even though they shouldered muskets to ward off the possible attack of Indians.

Thanksgiving is a unique holiday. It is not a religious holiday, no minimum wage law, no day in quite the same sense as to work for the preservation of the heritage our forefathers gave us. Paradoxical though it is, it is a day of human nature that we more have to be thankful for, the less grateful we become.

We have lost the real significance of this day. For some it is a holiday only. For some it is a day when we renew his faith in God and in the American great and without which every nation so far has crumbled into dust.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

In 1944 Mrs. Harmon Easterday, CASTLEFORD, was given a red registered male poodle puppy named Tulane by her daughter, Lavonia. Mrs. Easterday is a confirmed dog lover and she was delighted when Tulane was able to obtain "JoDee Mc-O'Dee of Love," a black female poodle owned by Mrs. Jake Glantz, TWIN FALLS. Tulane was more like a penguin than a poodle. She would sit up by the hour with her front feet hanging down and her head moving from side to side begging for a choice bite of food.

In the course of time, Tulane and Tulane had a litter of puppies. In 1951 "Abon Hassan's Prince Tony," a pug was added to the Easterday collection. Prince Tony was flown in from Canada by Air Express, and caused quite a commotion in the area since pugs are a relatively new breed here.

The prince is all cream colored except for his black button ears and face. His tail curls up and his short haired tiny body is typical of the breed which originated in China and is believed to have a common ancestor with the poodle.

Mrs. and Mrs. Jack Peterson moved to BURLINGAME from New Mexico several years ago and brought with them a female pug dog, "Mrs. Ida" New. According to Mrs. Easterday, there are quite a number of pug dogs in the valley.

Her dogs naturally led Mrs. Easterday into the dog show. At present she is vice president of the Twin Falls Kennel club and has shown her female pug, "JoDee Mc-O'Dee of Love."

"Dee Dee" has 12 points towards her championship. Winning best of breed at LEWISTON and at CHEYENNE, Wyo. She was chosen best of opposite at Missoula, Mont., and in Reno and has been shown in Twin Falls. The little dog has many troubles that her mistress proudly displays. Dee Dee was handled by Mrs. Russell Peterson of MOORE, TWIN FALLS.

Top penguins at the Easterday home are "JoDee's Black Yu Yu," a black male, "Castleford's Pippin," a blond male, "Hicklet," a red female and "Blonde Smokey" with two 6-week-old sons. Posing date back 2,000 years and a good dog has a flat face, small body, a heavy coat and long ears fringing, according to Mrs. Easterday. The Easterdays live one mile east of Twin Falls and one-half south of Castleford.

Little Rock Is Under Cloud For Holidays

Few people think so. As Gov. Orval Faubus said, "The GOC should have had a 2-1 margin. Their candidates were well known, well financed and they had been campaigning for a year. The segregationists were largely unknown yet they won one seat and came within a hair of winning them all."

Chairman of the new board is Werner Knapp, 55, a contractor. He is an earnest, hardworking man. Recently aware of the problem confronting the new city government and of his responsibilities.

"The election of six GOC candidates did not, to me, indicate a victory for either the integrationists or the segregationists," he said. "But it did indicate that a great many people in Little Rock are interested in having good government."

There are reports that the White House has been in touch with the GOC, assessing the possibilities that the new city administration takes over the problem of handling Little Rock policemen or a deputized group of citizens.

In that way, the national guard could be defederalized and another step taken toward normal relations. He said, "The board of directors is certainly charged with the responsibility for maintaining law and order. We have no choice but to maintain order around that school and everywhere else."

Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Hamilton and Mrs. B. O. Hamilton left this week for Salem, Ore., to be with Kenneth Hamilton, who underwent surgery Wednesday at a Salem hospital.

Nurse Graduated

GOODING, Nov. 23—Dorothy D. Kistler, daughter of Mrs. E. L. Kistler, Gooding, has returned from San Francisco where she was graduating from dental nurses training school Nov. 15.

Mrs. Kistler was graduated from Gooding high school in May. She attended Twin Falls schools before moving to Gooding two years ago.

After several weeks' vacation, Miss Kistler will return to Twin Falls where she will be dental nurse for Dr. A. M. May.

Local Couple Works on Own Project to Preserve Bits of T. F., Valley History

A consciousness of Idaho history coupled with a feeling that few historians are doing anything to record and preserve is resulted in a Twin Falls couple starting a project several years ago.

Today, the project started by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Soper, 303 Third avenue west, has filled the basement rooms of their home, has taken up a lot of space at Soper's place of business and is threatening to fill his workshop.

Mr. and Mrs. Soper are collecting almost anything relating to early Idaho history and especially historical items and artifacts connected with the settling of Magic Valley and Twin Falls.

In addition to collecting items usually found in museums, Soper has recently completed a collection of heads of all big game animals of Idaho and is threatening to fill his workshop.

His collection of animal heads, all mounted and on display in his basement, includes a mountain goat, moose, sheep, black bear and deer. He also has pheasants and a giant red salmon and rainbow trout. The latest addition to his animal collection is a cougar taken early this month in Owyhee county.

Mr. and Mrs. Soper have refused numerous offers from persons wishing to buy—part or all of their collection.

Finding time to arrange the collection and finding space for it are the two biggest problems confronting the Sopers.

He has plans for the solution of one of the problems. "Someday I'm going to construct a building for and bugles, surveys and wagons. I've collected briefly with myself then drew a head on the head of the animal and fired. I was using a heavy caliber rifle and at my shot the animal went down. Then I was in a dilemma. I was afraid to approach the thing, yet curiosity finally got the best of me and with my finger on the trigger I slowly approached.

Soper admits this had little to do with Idaho history. It is an interesting case of Idaho wildlife that he believes is headed for extinction.

His collection of animal heads, all mounted and on display in his basement, includes a mountain goat, moose, sheep, black bear and deer. He also has pheasants and a giant red salmon and rainbow trout. The latest addition to his animal collection is a cougar taken early this month in Owyhee county.

Mr. and Mrs. Soper have refused numerous offers from persons wishing to buy—part or all of their collection.

While many of the items date back over 100 years, Soper seems to favor collecting such items that reflect the early history of the Twin Falls tract.

He depicts the destruction of one of the first old-fashioned steam engines used in Twin Falls. As he explains it, "I saw that, old horse drawn steam engine sold later cut up for junk. It made me sick. I couldn't buy it. It is a shame that the city did not see fit to preserve it so that the youngsters of today and of the future could have been privileged to see and enjoy this old-timer."

Such items as old gold scales, grain scales and old safety razors are a part of his collection. He admits, and likes to point out to anyone interested, the craftsmanship and work evident in the lines of his old bugles, cars and guns.

In assembling his natural history collection he has gone to great expense and spent considerable time. However, Mrs. Soper describes it as a "labor of love." To assemble the collection of heads of game animals, Soper was "forced" to spend many long hours hunting.

He has the head and cape of every game animal in Idaho with the exception of a grizzly bear, antelope and bobcat. "I've put these two animals off until last, because I believe both animals are far from extinct in Idaho," Soper explains.

While he has a fine head of an elk in his collection he has a set of elk antlers of which he is understandably proud. The story that goes with it is interesting.

As Soper tells it, "A few years ago I was hunting in the Idaho City area for elk. I wasn't ready after a trophy but hunting more for the sport of it when I had one of the oddest experiences in my years of hunting.

I was hunting in an area where there were lots of shadows and some underbrush and through a combination of both shadows and the unusual lighting it gave me an eerie feeling.

"After several hours I was beginning to tire when I heard a crashing into the brush. I threw off the safety catch on my gun and prepared to shoot whenever I could determine and see what the animal was that was making the noise.

"Suddenly a large animal broke cover and started across an open stretch of ground. I had four legs and the general appearance of an elk but the head or front of the animal presented a sight I had never seen before. The head of the animal looked huge and misshapen. A great cluster of hair appeared to be wound around two big antlers with a third or extra antler swinging in an arc in front of the animal's head.

"The sight of this unidentified animal momentarily filled me with terror. I debated briefly with myself then drew a head on the head of the animal and fired. I was using a heavy caliber rifle and at my shot the animal went down. Then I was in a dilemma. I was afraid to approach the thing, yet curiosity finally got the best of me and with my finger on the trigger I slowly approached.

the fight the lower apparently had one of his antlers entangled in the wire—which was broken from his head. When Soper removed the rack he left the third antler as he found it.

Mr. and Mrs. Soper have been residents of Twin Falls for 21 years. They came to Twin Falls in 1926 and Soper worked for the Twin Falls Canal company. He started his trailer business in 1930. He has been a strong supporter of many city projects and has done much to advertise Idaho.

Mrs. Soper shares his husband's enthusiasm for collecting artifacts and items relating to Idaho and Magic Valley history. She has a scrap book dating from their arrival in Twin Falls and is constantly adding any newspaper clipping related to local history.

Self Rule Is Aim at City's League Meet

BUHL, Nov. 23—Mayor Theron Ward, mayor of the Idaho municipal league, spoke on home rule for cities at a Magic Valley meeting in Buhl Thursday evening.

Fifty-one persons from Jerome, Gooding, Twin Falls, Kimberly, Buhl and McCall attended the 6:30 dinner at the R and R cafe.

Ward told of the home rule law which is scheduled to come before the legislature. The law would take over the power from the state and allow each city to set up its own charter and government instead of following state statutes. It also would provide a revenue raising program for cities and give them a better proportion of state revenue, particularly in highway districts, according to Mayor Ward.

Robert Smith, mayor, executive secretary of the league, conducted a question and answer period on various problems faced by city officials.

Frank Squire, Buhl mayor, was in charge of meeting arrangements. Attending from Twin Falls were J. Ted Davis, commissioner, Joseph Lattimore, city manager, and Mrs. Constance Lever, city clerk.

Lead-Zinc Industry Hearings May Be Largest and Longest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (Special)—The steepest lead-zinc industry case for maximum tariff increases and import quotas being heard by the U. S. tariff commission this week may turn out to be one of the largest, longest and most important hearings in the commission's history.

In its second day, Nov. 22, the commission, D. C. O'Leary, chairman, heard what other congressmen testified before him had implied, that a hot congressional battle in defense of the trade agreement act was forthcoming unless an adequate remedy is provided for the ailing lead-zinc industry.

The edge of the reciprocal trade program is in the balance as these hearings proceed. Edmund J. O'Leary, D. C., said, "If the American people and their representatives ever conclude that the safeguards of the reciprocal trade law are worthless, you may be sure that the reciprocal trade program has about as much future life as the little dot in the Roman alphabet."

Other western congressmen have been equally stirred over the lead-zinc situation.

Sen. Frank Church, D. Ida., wrote the commission that a "state of crisis" existed in the "Coeur d'Alene mining district."

"I warn you," Church said, "that the United States stands in danger of utterly losing mineral wealth in the Coeur d'Alene district unless every possible step is taken." He backed both maximum duty rates and an import quota.

The roster of mining state lawmakers testified immediately included Idaho's Sen. Henry C. Dworshak, Rep. Orville Frost; Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, R. Utah; Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D. N.M., and some dozen others.

The industry was unanimous over its bid for maximum tariffs, which would be a boost from 1 1/2 cents a pound to 25 cents on pig lead and from 7/10 of a cent to 2 1/2 cents a pound on slab zinc.

But it was split down the middle over the quota question, with companies who import the metal for smelters fearing that any quota system would mean getting entangled in government regulation.

By Wednesday it was clear the opponents of a tariff rise, foreign producers and domestic importers, had accepted the obvious fact that a tariff rise would be recommended. But it was indicated they would try for a loophole in such action.

Charles Barber, a young New York attorney representing the American Smelting and Refining company, who spearheaded opposition of the tariff bid, indicated he will propose that the gap be widened between duties on lead-zinc concentrates and those of straight metal.

This would be a gimmick to get around higher rates on metal itself by shipping in low grade ore concentrates. Since most foreign operations have large stockpiles of these concentrates on hand, prices could

Old as You Look
Aging Signs Different From Person to Person

By FRANK F. JORDAN, MD
(Written for NEA Service)
Although everyone grows older at the same rate of speed, the signs of advancing years generally appear gradually, unequally and differ from person to person.
Some activities, for example, which counter-ratch at 18 are impossible or unwise at 30. Others which can be performed at 30 are undesirable at 50.
It seems to me that there are two aspects of aging which everyone should consider. One is the recognition of physical changes and the need to adjust to them in daily living. The other is the conscious preparation for certain changes in living pattern in the later years.
From the physical point of view, we bring some slowing of many functions of the body and a lessened ability for some of the body tissues and functions in withstanding stress. For example, the muscles, including the heart muscle, cannot stand as much strain in later years as they did earlier. Therefore, it is foolish to take as strenuous exercise as was possible in youth.

Such special senses as hearing and vision become less acute and adjustment of varying degrees to these changes is needed. It is also characteristic for the memory to weaken, particularly memory for recent events. Many older people show this by repeating stories to the same audience simply because they do not remember that they did this before.
Assuming that one lives long enough, the older years bring changes to everyone. Mothers who have been busy with the varied problems of their children are inevitably relieved of this time-consuming task. Some planning on what they will do when this time comes in order to occupy themselves in a new order.
Men, too, generally face the prospect of change in their habits of work and play. Retirement can be a welcome relief from heavy duties or it can be a blow which some men find hard to overcome.
It is now generally believed that more than should be given retirement in advance. There are many books and pamphlets, most of which can be found in the nearest public library, which should prove of great assistance if consulted years before expected retirement.
Industries and physicians interested in public health have taken an increasing interest in this subject also. For example, the National Association for Mental Health has published a series of six letters addressed to employed people from 20-50.
The simple matter of growing older is so inevitable that it should be taken philosophically. Such drawbacks as it does have can be lessened by careful planning and better understanding of some of the advantages which it also can offer.
